Jean Baptiste Auvray is a designer, interior architect and scenographer who lives between Paris and Annecy. With an exceptional eye for detail, Jean Baptiste understands how to translate the concept behind a brand, a Maison or a person, into the design of objects and spaces. His experience of both grand architecture and subtle redesigns make him comfortable with projects of any scale, faithfully ensuring that the overall vision is reflected in even the smallest details. Jean Baptiste collaborates with a network of exceptional craftspeople who are equipped to tackle these challenges.

"Héritages" is a collection that heralds an unprecedented reconciliation between traditional know-how and the boldness of contemporary design. By conjugating the past with the future, Jean Baptiste Auvray turns archetypes and our certainties upside down. This collection of seats questions the notion of style, delves into our intimate memory and projects us into a troubling chimerical universe that will not leave us unscattered. An essential and precious collection.
